

Since 1992, STARTTRON has been developing creative and diversified products and solutions with its own technology, manufacturing its own products and developing solutions for third parties in various segments. There are projects for automotive products included in the portfolio as well as industrial controls for third parties.

We develop solutions in the electronic security segments: industrial, commercial and residential products, as well as special customized products. With technology and quality, we seek to meet our customers' needs.

